Forecast for Thursday 24 Jun 2021

Weather: A cloudy start to the day with some outbreaks of heavier rain through the morning, in the afternoon cloud will break up a little allowing some sunny spell to develop. Though showers may also develop, with a low risk of these turning heavy and thundery. Becoming drier into the evening but some low cloud will bring misty conditions on hill tops overnight.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 600m: 100% becoming less than 10% by early morning increasing to 60% by mid-afternoon

Visibility: Good first thing but deteriorating to poor as cloud bases lower to around 400m by early morning with rain and drizzle, from lunchtime onwards cloud bases will lift and break up to around 700m allowing hill tops to be visible from time to time, though in heavy showers conditions will suddenly deteriorate through the afternoon. From the evening onwards visibility will become poor on some hill tops as patchy cloud develops at around 300m.
